

Abstract of the Disclosure

The invention discloses a swivel comprising two coaxial, mutually rotatable members is provided with means for transferring operating and/or controlling media or the like between the members. The means can be flexible hoses or cables connected between the members. The hoses or cables are connected to the members by means of quick-couplings.